MACP Announces Sponsorship of "Work Notebook for Elementary School Students," a Supplementary Career Education Material, for the Fourth Consecutive Year

Supporting Career Education by Explaining the Social Significance of M&A and the Work of M&A Advisors in an Easy-to-Understand Way for Elementary School Students

M&A Capital Partners Co., Ltd. (Head Office: Chuo-ku, Tokyo; President & CEO: Satoru Nakamura; hereinafter "MACP") is pleased to announce its sponsorship of the 2026 edition of "Work Notebook for Elementary School Students: Chuo City," a supplementary career education material published on September 30, 2026, marking its fourth consecutive year of sponsorship since the 2023 edition.

The 2026 Chuo City edition of "Work Notebook for Elementary School Students" features MACP across two pages, explaining the mechanisms and social significance of M&A, the work of M&A advisors, and the benefits that M&A can create in an easy-to-understand way for elementary school students.

The importance of providing children with opportunities to consider the connection between what they learn and their future careers is growing, as reflected in the inclusion of enhanced career education in Japan's Courses of Study. Through its sponsorship of "Work Notebook for Elementary School Students," MACP will continue to support opportunities for elementary school students in Chuo City, where MACP is headquartered, to learn about local companies, industries, and a wide range of occupations, and to think about their own futures.

As companies face increasingly diverse management challenges, including the lack of successors, M&A has become an option not only for business succession but also for companies seeking growth by leveraging each other's strengths. MACP will continue to provide clear and accessible information and raise awareness of M&A so that children, who will shape the future, can also become more familiar with M&A.

■About "Work Notebook for Elementary School Students"

"Work Notebook for Elementary School Students" is a supplementary career education material designed to increase elementary school students' interest in work and help them learn about local industries and occupations. By introducing local companies and the people who work there, the material helps children deepen their understanding of their communities and provides opportunities to think about their future careers and ways of life. First published in Gifu City in May 2020, the material has since expanded to communities across Japan, together with "Work Book." The 2026 Chuo City edition provides an easy-to-understand introduction to the work of sponsoring companies, insights from their employees, and the characteristics of the local community. A total of 3,500 copies will be distributed to third- and fourth-grade students at public elementary schools in Chuo City. MACP's pages use illustrations and diagrams to explain the role of M&A in bringing companies together and how M&A advisors work closely with companies to provide support.
